A "braw" week in Edinburgh

Early in the morning, just as the day was dawning, we went to the airport for boarding.

It was a Saturday when we flew away.

We were glad to say, it was a braw-Scottish-day.

On Sunday we were hiking, it was really exciting.

The sea is beautiful in St. Andrews but now all have wet shoes.

Our first day at school was pretty cool.

Finding the right bus was really hard-it was a "holpriger Start."

On the guided tour we saw interesting places and a few hidden spaces.

We heard some tragic stories about the city but most off hem were very pretty.

We saw the inspirations of J. K. Rowling and in the evening we went bowling.

Tuesday was our free day and everyone did a different activity.

On Wednesday we went to Glasgow by train and it didn't rain again.
It was such a sunny day and our troubles flew away.

Thursday we liked the most, we met some handsome ghosts.

They were scary and funny so we screamed for our mummy.

We heard that they burned witches. That had us all in stitches.

On Friday we were sad, because we had to pack our bag.

Before the trip could end we visited the parliament.

Saturday we woke up way too early and the flight took us home to end our journey.
